MISSOULA--

The University of Montana Wildlife Society will present a film on grizzly bears of Montana at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 22, in the UM Music Recital Hall.

The showing, originally scheduled for last November at UM, is open to the public without charge.

Craig Sharpe, Helena, photo technician for the Film Center of the Environment and Information Division, Department of Fish and Game, edited, directed and shot the film, which was two years in production.

Also involved in making the film were James Posewitz and Steve Bayless, both of Helena, who are also employed by the Environment and Information Division of the Montana Department of Fish and Game. Posewitz, who will be on hand to give a portion of the narrative for Thursday's film presentation in Missoula, is division administrator, and Bayless is the division's bureau of information chief.

The 29-minute film, entitled "Room to Live," received a third-place bronze medal at the International Film Festival in New York late last year.
